When searching for the best things to do in London each weekend, it's hard not to end up more confused and indecisive than when you started. While it's never a bad idea to secure a booking at one of the best restaurants in the capital, spend an evening in one of the latest innovative bars on the scene, or even explore an iconic London attraction, we're always on the lookout for new, exciting pop-ups, openings and events. Each week, we get the inside track on exciting things to do in London for the upcoming weekend to help us discover a new area of the city or explore a new address in a neighbourhood we (thought) we'd already uncovered.

Hispania, South Kensington

Posted on March 26, 2024

The Blurb

World-renowned Hispania restaurants have teamed up with the Meliá Hotel to bring a taste of authentic Spanish cuisine to Kensington. The new menu, curated by Michelin-starred chef Marcos Morán, features traditional Spanish dishes with a vibrant twist. There's everything from rich Asturian bean stew with chorizo, cured sausage, lacón and bacon – which has been passed down in the Morán family for five generations – to fresh red tuna, Iberico pork, and caramelised rice pudding – Arroz con Leche. All that and a brilliant wine menu to match.

A Floral Journey in London

Date: May 2024

Publication: Blumehaus

To celebrate our collaboration in style, a wonderful lunch, The Super Supper Club, took place at the hotel's restaurant, the Hispania Kensington, where lovely encounters abounded and our worlds came together. Hispania prepared a specific Iberian-floral menu for the occasion.
